Infantry Hurls Back Three Red Assaults

Hydro-Electric Plants Hit 4th Time In Week

Furious Artillery Barrages Exchanged On Korean Front

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—United Nations infantrymen today threw back three furious assaults by Chinese Reds on the Korean western front. Allied warplanes for the fourth time in a week bombed and strafed hydro-electric plants serving North Korea and Manchuria.

Targets of the U.S. Fifth Air Force fighter-bombers Friday were the switchyards and power plants No. 1 and 2 at Changjin (Chosin) reservoir in northeastern Korea, 60 miles south of the Manchurian border.

Hit Second Day

It was the second straight day that the Changjin generating station had been hit. They serve Red industry in Manchuria and North Korea.

The fighting on the western front centered on a hill called "Baldy." The reinforced Chinese battalion, about 750 men, charged three times and were thrown back each time.

United Nations and Communist artillery exchanged furious barrages after the attacks.

Vegetation Cut Off

A.P. Correspondent Jim Becker said "Baldy" had little cover because "what little vegetation there was was sawed off by artillery."

"The Chinese were firing everything they had and we were firing all we had on them," Becker said after a visit to a hill west of Chosin.

The U.S. Eighth Army said the Reds lost 50 to 75 killed and 10 to 150 wounded in three charges Friday night and early today.

The action was another in the series of battles which began at "T-Bone" Hill—a few miles to the east. Chinese casualties around "T-Bone" were more than 3,000 during three weeks of intense fighting.

U.N. pilots reported they destroyed four Communist tanks during attacks on enemy positions. Low clouds hampered attacks on the North Korean supply system.

The U.S. Fifth Air Force reported it lost six planes over North Korea the past week. One U.S. Sabre jet was lost in an aerial battle and five Allied planes were shot down by ground fire.

New Foreign Aid Slash Is Planned

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House holds an unusual Saturday session today with anti-administration knives poised for another cut in President Truman's foreign aid program.

The special meeting was scheduled in an attempt to finish consideration of a 10 billion dollar special appropriation bill to provide money for over seas aid and other programs.

Rep. Taber (R-NY) predicted an effort would be made to slice at least 200 million dollars more from the $6,275,940,750 mutual security program for the year beginning July 1.

The President's request for $7,900,000,000 which he described as the absolute minimum for foreign military and economic assistance, already had been slashed 21 per cent.

The House tentatively added 26 million dollars to the $10,283,133,780 appropriation bill yesterday in a day-long session marked by sharp criticism of the cost of the military buildup and expressed concern for domestic problems.

At the same time, the House upheld a 47 per cent reduction in requested new funds for a program to double atomic production in the next six years. The President's $3,191,000,000 program was cut to $1,485,000,000.

The House also voted to restrict use of these funds, despite unanimous opposition by the Senate. House Atomic Committee members said it would set back development of the hydrogen bomb by perhaps two years.

Centennial Park Playground Starts Morning Hours Monday

Hot weather cut sharply into attendance at Salem's three summer playlots during the three days that the playgrounds operated and commencing Monday the Centennial Park programs will be conducted in the morning between 10 and 12 noon.

Opening day Wednesday had 179 children at the park, Buckeye and Prospect school lots. Thursday, the overall attendance dropped to 115 and on Friday it was an even 100.

Meanwhile, Playground Supervisor Fred Cope announced a schedule of varied activities for next week.

Cope said many requests have come from the children for croquet and badminton. Individuals or organizations wishing to donate old or new sets for playground use are asked to call Mr. Cope, 7691, immediately. The Superior Wallpaper store has donated some paint and brushes for the children's use in painting.

The playground schedule next two weeks includes:

Taft Calls For End To Foreign Aid, Yalta Pact

Ohioan Urges Stepped Up Propaganda Drive On Red Satellites

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft prepared today to carry his fight for the Republican presidential nomination to Chicago, where he plans to see more state delegations' early next week.

Taft leaves for the convention city Sunday night.

He made his last public appearance at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville, where he conferred with members of the Virginia delegation and summarized his views on foreign policy in a major speech before the Institute of Public Affairs. Taft made three major points:

1. He believes economic aid to Western Europe should now be cut off.

2. The United States should repudiate the Yalta agreement.

3. A policy of "infiltration and propaganda," directed at the satellite Communist nations, should be undertaken immediately by this country.

Climaxed Long Delay

The speech was the climax of a long and arduous day, in near-record heat, that Taft spent in Virginia. He held his regular morning news conference, then met with the 23-man Virginia delegation in a closed session, addressed the Taft club of Charlottesville in a luncheon speech and finally spoke to some 5,000 people at the university last night.

A resurvey of the delegation indicated, however, that his strength in Virginia may be less than he claims. Taft said he counted on 17 of the delegates, but a survey by Associated Press correspondents indicated today that the alignment may be 12 for the Ohioan, three for Eisenhower and eight uncommitted.

Vote Representatives

In a vote for representatives to the National Convention, the Virginia delegation named a Taft man to the Credentials Committee and an Eisenhower man to the resolutions committee. The tally in each case was 11-10, possibly indicating an even closer division between the senator and Gen. Eisenhower among the members.

In a major speech on foreign policy, Taft declared:

"I believe we have come to the point where there is no longer any justification for economic aid to Western Europe."

Taft said he felt the Marshall Plan was justified and that, under Point Four, the United States could give some assistance to other nations. But he qualified that by saying that the assistance must be on a scale "as to effect the operation and the protection of the strength of America itself."

The senator said he does not believe in any organized charity for other nations. And he said the United States should repudiate the agreements made at Yalta.

Extension Of Wage-Price Controls Voted

Senate-House Group Reaches Compromise; On 10-Month Reprieve

WASHINGTON (AP)—A 10-month extension of wage-price controls, due to expire Monday, was voted by a Senate-House Conference Committee early today in a marathon race against time.

The compromise, hammered out of divergent bills passed by the Senate and House, was whisked to the Senate's special Saturday session for action. House consideration is scheduled Monday.

Senate-House conferees met yesterday, last night and into today's pre-dawn hours. All in all, the results were accounted an administration victory after the beating the bill took in the House.

Dropped Talle Provision

The committee abandoned a House provision by Rep. Talle (R-Iowa) which would have snipped controls from commodities not rationed or allocated. Nothing is rationed now. Only a few scarce metals are allocated.

It also watered down another House provision, by Rep. Cole (R-Kan.), which would have guaranteed sellers' price markups based on individual, instead of industry-wide, profit margins before the Korean War erupted. The diluted version amounts to a separate footnotes amounts to a restatement of existing law.

An administration setback, however, was the committee's decision to retain a provision which would exempt processed fruits and vegetables from price control.

All three had been roundly scored by administration forces.

House adoption of the Talle and Cole amendment led Price Stabilizer Ellis Arnall to comment they pulled the rug from under controls, leaving him no recourse but to bow out.

Would Boost Grocery Bill

Price officials said about 11 per cent of the housewife's food money goes for processed fruits and vegetables—frozen and otherwise—and knocking off controls for these would boost the grocery bill.

The compromise bill would all but scrap credit controls and would end rental curbs Sept. 30 except where localities vote to continue them until April 30, 1953. Real estate credit checks would also end—but with a proviso.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman announced last night they had agreed on the substance of a note to the Soviet Union.

They also said in a communique that they had "considered means" for ensuring close cooperation in Korea and the Far East during their two formal sessions which ended last night with a dinner given by Eden.

Meet Separately

Today they meet each other separately—before Acheson leaves at 1 p.m. local time (8 a.m. EST) by air for Berlin—to hammer out further details on how best to achieve that aim.

One suggestion has been that a British deputy should be appointed to Gen. Mark Clark, U.N. commander in Korea.

The communique gave no details on the agreement to answer a qualified "yes" to repeated Soviet demands for direct Four-Power talks on a German settlement.

There was no indication whether the West would ask that the proposed Big-Four conference be held by the foreign ministers or on a lower level.

Set Limits to Meeting

An informed source said the new Western proposal would set definite limits to the initial meeting.

The first concern of the West, the source said, would be to get Russian agreement on a commission to investigate the possibility of free elections throughout Germany. The second step would be to settle on the status of an all-German government during the period before a final peace treaty was signed.

FOUR of the six winners of Mullins' $1,000 scholarships for 1952 watch a demonstration of laboratory techniques during a plant visit. Watching Walter Ibele, who received his engineering degree under the scholarship plan last month, are, left to right, William Brelih of Salem; Lloyd Patrick, Warren; Edward Buynacek, Newton Falls, and John Jones, New Waterford. Not present was Dean Horton, shown in the inset.

Two Salem Boys Among Six Mullins Scholarship Winners

Two Salem boys and one from New Waterford are among the six scholarship winners for 1952 as announced today by the Mullins Manufacturing Corp.

The $1,000 scholarships are to the University of Cincinnati, which is cooperating for the seventh year in Mullins' scholarship plan.

Engineering scholarships went to William Brelih, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Brelih of 340 E. Eighth St.; Dean Horton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest F. Horton of 1091 E. Ninth St.; Lloyd Patrick of Warren and Edward Buynacek of Newton Falls.

Winners in competition for the business administration scholarships are John J. Jones of RD 1, New Waterford, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Jones, and Joseph Frost of Warren.

Begin Schooling in Fall

All will enter the University of Cincinnati next September.

Two of this year's winners are sons of Mullins employees. Patrick is the son of Lloyd Patrick Sr., maintenance leader at Warren, and Brelih is the son of Anthony Brelih, foreman in Salem Plant 3.

Under the university's cooperative plan, the students spend the first year at the university. For the next four years they alternate class attendance with work periods in Mullins plants. This plan permits them to earn a large portion of the money needed to complete their education.

In the seven years the scholarship plan has been in operation, Mullins has provided 32 men with college opportunities. Six will enter the university in the fall; four have graduated; 14 are still in school; three have entered the armed services and five others have transferred to other cooperative plans or colleges.

Mullins' President George E. Whitlock announced also that Walter Ibele of Salem, the fourth man to graduate with an engineering degree under Mullins' scholarship plan, is now employed as a metallurgical engineer at the Liberty plant in Warren.

5 Steelworkers In County Denied Relief

County Welfare Director Rigby Mast announced Friday afternoon that about five striking steel workers have called him about relief, but at the present time the county plans no help for the strikers.

Mast said the only time the county would take action would be 30 days after a person drew his last check. The director said most of the men drew checks recently and all will get vacation paychecks soon.

Mast said the county will give relief only where it is a dire need and if given the worker will have to work it out. He would be assigned to road work in the township where he resides.

Union Calls Move 1st Break In Industry Front

12½ Cent Wage Hike, Modified Union Shop Granted By Producer

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The CIO United Steelworkers have signed an interim agreement which provides a 12½-cent hourly hike for 10,500 employees of the Pittsburgh Steel Company—a basic producer.

The agreement was personally negotiated yesterday by Philip Murray, president of the steelworkers. It provides a modified union shop and otherwise substantially follows recommendations made weeks ago by the Wage Stabilization Board in an effort to avoid a strike which now is in the 26th day.

Murray, himself, didn't comment after giving the green light to Pittsburgh Steel to immediately start plans for resumption of production. However, one of his associates—who asked not to be identified, said the agreement "is an important break in the solid front put up by the basic steel industry."

Stephens Doesn't Comment

John A. Stephens, vice president of U.S. Steel who has been a chief industry negotiator during the past few months, said he had no comment on the agreement. When asked if any negotiations are planned soon to end the strike, he said merely:

"We are ready to negotiate at any time."

Although no negotiations are planned with U.S. Steel or other companies smelting up the industry's "Big Six," one of Murray's associates said he expected "more companies to fall in line soon."

He said approximately 48,000 of the 650,000 men who struck June 2 now have been covered in interim agreements which have been signed since the strike began. Most of these are in smaller companies.

Some Companies Sign

Companies which have signed include Detroit Steel Corp., and Kaiser Steel Company. A few days ago 12 companies in the Pittsburgh area, employing 9,000, signed pacts which followed the general pattern of the WSB recommendations.

The WSB recommended a union shop whereby all steelworkers must belong to Murray's union. Pittsburgh Steel's contract calls for a modified shop. New employees must join the union but can withdraw between their 20th and 30th day of work.

O For A Thousand Tongues To Sing

John and Charles Wesley take a boat ride

The bow of the old sail ship pointed to the mouth of the Savannah River where Georgia and South Carolina meet on the Atlantic. On board were two Englishmen. One was 28 years old and the other private secretary of Gen. James Oglethorpe. The other would be 33 come June and he was going to Savannah as chaplain to the Colonists. Also on board were 26 German immigrants of the Moravian faith. They were going to the colony 18 miles up the river to worship God and sing hymns without fear of persecution.

That was in early 1736. A storm overtook the windjammer on Jan. 25. The Moravians were on deck singing hymns in German. The mainsail split. The mast splintered. The sea broke over. Passengers screamed in panic. The Moravians never missed a note and John and Charles Wesley clung to the rail. After the storm John Wesley asked one of the brethren, “Was you not afraid?” and the Moravian said, “Thank God, no.”

John and Charles Wesley were clergymen in the Church of England. They never formally left the Established Church as long as they lived. But they were not in sympathy with some of the church policies and, while students at Oxford, they joined a club for encouraging personal religion. A methodical organizer, John wrote a set of methods of

My great Redeemer’s praise,
The glories of my God and King,
The triumphs of His grace.

My gracious Master and my God,
Assist me to proclaim,
To spread thro’ all the earth abroad
The honors of Thy name.

Jesus! the name that charms our fears,
That bids our sorrows cease;

people are going to Camp Caesar W. Va., Monday morning, returning Saturday.

The Women’s Missionary Auxiliaries of the Salem Church have invited all the women of the Damascus Quarterly meeting to attend a women’s missionary fellowship meeting Tuesday evening, July 8 in the Salem church. Craig Sampson of the Sebring Country Club recently entertained 14 guests at a party in honor of his birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. K. C. Vincet of Pennsylvania have moved to their summer cottage here.

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Science Of A Satisfying Life

I had an interesting conference with a man and his wife on a problem of great importance to them. The wife was very troubled; she did most of the talking. The husband, though concerned, was quiet and restrained.

Finally, commenting upon his quietness in contrast to her tension, the wife said, “You’ll never get any expression out of Jack. Nothing troubles him. I fuss and fuss, but he keeps right on being quiet and peaceful, no matter what.”

Dr. Peale

I was impressed by his dignity, gentility, and, above all, his profound calm. He was a much stranger personality than his wife. Finally I asked him how in the face of a problem such as his, he could manifest such a spirit of imper-turbability.

His answer was direct. “There’s no secret about it,” he said. “I have discovered the science of a satisfying life.”

The phrase caught my interest. This man knew what so many of us do not seem to realize, that living is a science. In a scientific age, all too few of us recognize that fact. We all know what science can do to bring a television picture out of the sky into our living rooms, to increase the egg production of hens by special feeds and culture to move us from place to place with increasing speed. These accomplishments result from the application of certain scientific laws.

AND THERE ARE laws in the spiritual realm governing living, which are so exact, so precise, that if you learn to apply them to yourself you will develop powers you did not know you had. You will develop a peace you never dreamed you could possess. You can have insights far beyond anything you ever conceived. And you can solve your problems with an ease and skill which will astonish you.

It is amazing what a human being can do with himself when he

You are thinking and believing, and no forces are more powerful than thought and faith. By thought you apply your own inner powers to the situation, and by faith you bring to bear the vast powers of God.

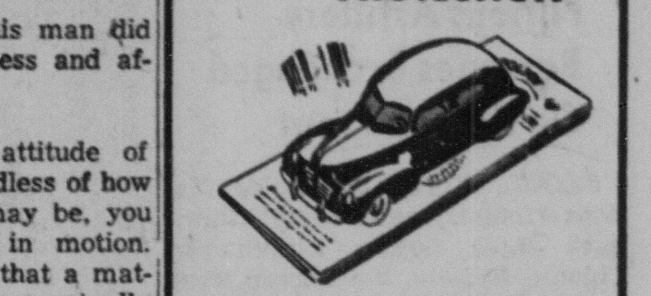

Try this method for yourself, and see if it isn’t “the science of a satisfying life.”

THE BELL...and THE BELLS

The Liberty Bell never rings. Ever since it cracked while tolling the death of Chief Justice Marshall in 1835, it has stood motionless and silent, like the Americans—men and women, boys and girls—who come every day to behold it.

But each Sunday, in cities and hamlets across the continent, the church bells ring! They have taken up the song of their silent brother that it may echo endlessly throughout America.

Those millions of Christian worshippers for whom the bells ring are a living symbol of Freedom. But, more than that, they are the users of Freedom, preserving through practice and prayer their sacred right to believe, and to live their faith.

Small matter that The Liberty Bell does not ring. Freedom shall live as long as Church BELLS ring.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Not Even The Delegates

Since both Taft and Eisenhower camps have issued supremely confident statements about the outcome of their contest for delegates to the Republican convention, one of them must be wrong.

With due respect, both of them are wrong. They do not know the outcome of their contest. That will be decided by what finally happens to 189 delegates who cannot be claimed positively by either side, plus 129 who are committed to dark-horse candidates, plus an indeterminate number of other delegates who may change their minds before the balloting begins.

It is for the sole purpose of helping delegates to make up their minds that the Taft and Eisenhower camps are being supremely confident. It is for the sole purpose of keeping either camp from getting the edge that each camp stridently denies what the other camp claims.

The contest for the 1,206 delegates who will comprise the Republican convention is now settling down to business. This is Phase 2. Phase 1 was over when the final delegate had been named. From now on, the public is an onlooker; it has no further role to play. The Democratic contest this year, the public had had no role to play at all.

The Democrats have been letting Estes Kefauver run for his health. When the time comes to choose a presidential candidate, Mr. Truman will designate his choice and the job will be done. If no one satisfies him, he will do the job himself.

High-Priced Face

In a game which has been going on since last December, all the cards now are on the table. Steelworkers and other citizens of the United States are paying a mighty stiff price for Phillip Murray's face. That is the only issue left unsettled.

It is his privilege in a free country to call and maintain a strike in the steel industry. It is the privilege of those who agree with him to stand by him to the bitter end—as no doubt they intend to do. But it is the privilege of everybody else—in a free country—to judge the issue. That includes American citizens in the steel industry.

It has been difficult to understand ever since it became known that the union negotiators for the companies in the steel dispute were in substantial agreement on all money and working condition questions what was so important about the union-shop issue that it justified a strike.

If the union had existed and flourished this long without a union shop, what suddenly had caused the union shop to outrage wage rates, paid vacations, pensions, shift differentials and all the other things which have been more important in the past?

It would be interesting to hear the official explanation. What has made a union shop essential to Phillip Murray and the handful of men who can close down the steel industry and keep it closed down? What has made it so essential that they are willing to keep a strike going if it takes every last dollar in the savings of steelworkers?

That Man With The Umbrella

Between Gen. Clark and his sub-commanders bristling with fresh determination in Korea and the spokesmen for Britain's Labor party, there has grown up a difference of opinion which has put Prime Minister Churchill in the middle.

Churchill, the one statesman of modern times who has wanted to seize and hold the initiative against the dictatorships, now is reduced to defending the forthright policy of the new U.N. commander in Asia.

Clark's policy of bombing electric generating targets in North Korea set off a demand in the British House of Commons for an official explanation. The Labor Party minority contends that this sort of thing may plunge Britain into full-scale war. Churchill has heard all this before.

The obverse side of laborite misgivings is that a soft policy toward the North Koreans and Red Chinese would not plunge Britain into full-scale war; that the British could buy peace with appeasement.

It was this kind of reasoning which prompted Britons when Neville Chamberlain was prime minister before World War II to believe he had won peace in their time by appeasing Hitler and Mussolini. The fault did not lie with Chamberlain but with British failure to realize that dictatorships cannot be appeased. The man with the umbrella has been given the blame. But it was the people who flocked to get under the umbrella who demanded the appeasement.

With today's food prices, keeping the figures round keeps most of us flat.

The trouble with most inventions to end wars is that they shoot in all directions.

Eating tip to fat people — the road to thinness is just around the bend at the waist.

British Aid Enemy

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Parliamentary Debate Helps Communists

WASHINGTON

Suppose in the last few days you were sitting in the high command in Peiping or Moscow and you got a dispatch saying that American planes had made one of the biggest air raids of the Korean war and had put the electric power stations of North Korea out of commission.

Your first concern would be whether this meant the truce talks had ended and whether the United Nations was going to apply its military force to get a decision instead of prolonging the palaver.

But uncertainty as to what the UN meant didn't last long. The house of commons debate conveniently told the enemy all that it wanted to know. If anyone had crossed into the Communist military lines from the British battalions fighting in Korea and given the enemy information not to worry about these attacks, for they were not after all a unified allied decision, he would have been guilty of treason.

But under the present custom of free parliamentary debate, classified military information is revealed regularly. It is considered a routine piece of business to use the method of an opposition member's query in the house of commons to find out from the British government just what is going on in a military way.

THIS IS HARDLY the way to help an interAllied command function effectively in the field, but it turns out that the secretary of state of the United States, Dean Acheson, finds it necessary also to appear before a closed session of the house of commons in London and apologize because the American military command didn't telegraph ahead of time its intentions about the raid to all the various governments concerned.

One suspects that if a piece of important military information like that had been given to other governments on the diplomatic side in advance, it might have leaked to the enemy in time to permit a rival air force to come out to thwart the attack. Maybe that's the purpose of the controversy raised by the "left wing" in Britain—to make sure that next time all military information about the intentions of the UN commanders in Korea is advertised as widely as possible before they take action in the field.

A certain amount of consultation between allies as to broad policies is essential to the partnership which has developed among the 12 nations furnishing troops to fight in Korea. But Secretary Acheson apologized because a specific maneuver was not told the British in London before hand. This seems incomprehensible in view of the disclosure that the Labor government, when it was in power in Britain, had reached an understanding with the United States government as to the three contingencies in which there would be air bombardment of the electric power stations.

THESE, according to a British foreign office spokesman, were either a strong Communist attack of UN forces, a breakdown of the armistice talks, or a branch of the armistice after its conclusion.

The present situation was certainly a breakdown of the armistice talks, especially since, in the intervening months while the talks were going on, the enemy has built up its air force for a possible strike. This was, broadly speaking, enough consultation on the diplomatic side.

This understanding as to contingencies which could arise to permit bombing of the Yalu River power station—which were specifically covered in the advance agreement—is all that was really necessary, and it is certainly inexplicable that the American secretary of state should have allowed the inference to be drawn that conversations on military details will be available in the future to the British government and presumably to its spokesmen in answering the questions of opposition members in the house of commons.

The hint from Emanuel Shinwell, defense minister in the former Labor government, that Britain was instrumental in bringing about the dismissal of General MacArthur—who, when in command, favored bombing these same power stations a year and a half ago—has resulted in a White House denial. But it is nevertheless a fact that the British were making frequent representations protesting against General MacArthur's military strategy.

FORMER PRIME MINISTER Attlee told the house of commons, too, that he thought the big air raid a mistake, as it might lessen the chances of an armistice in Korea and lead to a "general conflagration" in the Far East.

The answer of many members of Congress is that, if Britain wants to determine or dictate military strategy in Korea, she should send troops in numbers equal to those of the United States. For if the Communist build-up continues and UN forces are slaughtered in a sudden attack, the casualties will be nine-tenths from the American battalions.

The latest episode suggests that perhaps Socialist members of the house of commons may some day, if America is called to the defense of Britain and perhaps of the European continent, ask that General Ridgway first tell his military plans each day to the opposition party in the house of commons.

The Vote This Year

By RICHARD SPONG

The biggest electorate in United States history will be available for the 1952 election, according to the Census Bureau. Some 98 million people will be of voting age—21 or over except in Georgia, where the legal voting age is 18.

This total, of course, includes many ineligible to vote—aliens, persons confined in prisons or mental hospitals, persons who failed to register or pay poll taxes. The total vote is expected to be in the neighborhood of 55 million, which would establish a numerical but not a proportional record. Only 14 million people voted in the presidential election of 1900, but they represented 74 per cent of those eligible.

Fewer women than men are expected to vote in November though women of voting age in the United States outnumber men by more than a million and a half. In 1948, when only slightly more than half of the adults in the country voted, the votes of women were estimated to be five millions under the votes of men. Women first became eligible to vote on a nation-wide basis in 1920.

The record vote in a presidential election was brought out by the Roosevelt-Willkie contest in 1940, when 49,820,312 Americans went to the polls. A non-presidential record of 42,324,232 votes was established in 1950.

Only 47,976,263 Americans voted in the presidential election of 1944. The total in that year was reduced by the difficulty of voting for many service men and the general effect of war dislocations. The 1948 presidential election brought out 48,833,680 voters.

Election day is a legal holiday in all states but Kansas, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Ohio, and Texas. Laws in a majority of states authorize time off for employees to vote and forbid employers to make deductions for the time away from work.

There is a general belief among politicians that a heavy turnout on election day favors Democratic candidates. Gallup estimates that if 90 million Americans were to vote in 1952, the party alignment would be 40 million Democrats to 26 million Republicans, with 24 million independent and undecided. On the other hand, if only 55 million were to vote, the balance of power for the independent voters would be much wider.

President Truman has blamed the "no-good, do-nothing 80th Congress" on the "two-thirds of the people" who stayed at home and didn't vote in the 1946 election. He has also deplored the "plain laziness" of non-voters and "the idea of letting George do it."

But Raymond Moley, an early adviser of President Roosevelt, believes that Democrats win when the vote is low. "Liberty is being lost by 42 million lazy people" who fail to vote, Moley told the Woman's National Republican Club in a speech in New York on April 16.

Bertram M. Gross, now Democratic research director, agrees that the Democrats are not necessarily helped by a high vote. Gross points out that the percentage of turnout was identical in 1928, when Hoover was elected and in 1944, when Roosevelt was reelected.

And despite a remarkably high vote in California in 1950, Democratic candidates there were snowed under.

The Question Of The Elbe

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Taft people have naturally made an issue of the withdrawal of the American troops from the Elbe, thus giving Berlin to the Russians. It is good political propaganda against an opponent on his record. It is not unlike the attack on Taft for his authorship of the Taft-Hartley Act, which is his record.

General Eisenhower had stated that what occurred there was due entirely to his judgment and decision and that it would have cost 10,000 American lives to take Berlin, which he would not do because the mothers of the 10,000 would have objected.

Should General Eisenhower be nominated by the Republicans, the Democrats will naturally raise this issue, as the Taft people are doing now. Their advantage will be possession of the Pentagon files, which ought not be used for political advantage but which could be if President Truman so decided.

I WANTED to get this story from an eye-witness, from one who was with the troops at the time, and I turned naturally to a reporter. It is true that Paul Manning is a Taft partisan; yet he was a war correspondent for the Mutual network and was with General George S. Patton Jr., from Normandy to Metz, writing and broadcasting battlefield reports. He is probably the only correspondent who reported both the German and Japanese surrender ceremonies from Rheims and Tokyo. He has been cited for outstanding work by military officials.

So I asked him to give me what he saw, and while his statement is too long for the space allotted this column, I shall give as much as I can:

"...Let's look at the situation as it really existed on the field of battle in that month of 1945 when our troops were moving so swiftly toward Berlin. I was there and this is what I saw. German resistance had crumbled. The Second Armored Division, spearhead of the American advance on Berlin, was moving at the phenomenal rate of 40 miles a day. German soldiers in division strength were surrendering.

Indeed the rate of surrender was so great that German units marched in formation under their own officers back through American lines seeking prisoner of war stockades to lay down their equipment. Upon reaching the Elbe, engineers of the Second Armored Division promptly began laying pontoon bridges while soldiers and officers impatiently waited to resume the advance. One German 88 millimeter gun battery and a handful of enemy soldiers barred the crossing but within minutes after our own heavy guns were brought into position, this resistance was silenced.

"The point of crossing was to be in the area of Magdeburg, a fine ancient city long ago reduced to rubble, a city of empty barracks and hungry people who welcomed the American entry because it meant an end to war. As American officers marshaled their forces for the crossing of the Elbe, the order suddenly came from General Eisenhower's headquarters, hundreds of miles to the rear in Rheims, France, that the forward sweep was to stop.

"The disappointment was immense.

"Upon receipt of General Eisenhower's historic order, the whole vast machine ground to a halt never to recover its momentum or elan. Patrols in reconnaissance strength advanced short distances across the Elbe in an attempt to make contact with the Russians but failed.

"American officers then took to broadcasting over mobile transmitters pleading for a reply from Soviet commanders as to the position of Soviet troops. Although they used a code which Eisenhower had personally arranged with Marshal Zhukov in the event of such a meeting of armies, these messages were ignored for seven days by the Russians until they had surrounded Berlin and were assured they would be first into the capital.

"The German garrison in Berlin, fighting the bitterest defense in German history against the Slavic hordes of Asiatic Russia, sent repeated messages by emissaries to the Elbe promising immediate surrender to the American forces, if only we would move to the gates of Berlin and make such surrender possible.

This is an eye-witness account and if it is incorrect, this column is available for a contradictory eye-witness account.

Naturally this statement does not deal with the decisions at Teheran and Yalta. It seemed to me remarkable that the General should have assumed full personal responsibility for matters which were discussed at these conferences.

Wait For The Bounce

By TRUMAN TWILL

This is a column, this particular one, that is written each year in the cycle of fixed events, like putting in screens. It is about the heat.

The point is that civilization in these parts would go to pieces like a ten-dollar rocking chair if the heat continued long enough.

In about four months of continuous heat, Americans would be whining about the reverse clause in which they aimed to save the world. There would be talk in the backward continents about sending missionaries over here to pick up the white man's burden where it skipped off his perspiring back.

This is the time—during the heat of the summer—to acknowledge with deep humility that geography and climate have had more to do with dynamic Americanism than supercharged breakfast cereals, vitamins or right thinking. More American gumption has been generated down through the years by a cold wind blowing up a loose pant leg than the challenge of new frontiers and the privilege of tapping natural resources in a proper frame of economic reference.

Alternating between hot and cold weather, genus Americanus has had a continuous chock treatment which has kept him from coming unglued and going splat in the midst of plenty. During most of the year, he dreams of life in a banana paradise under a broiling sun. During the rest, he dreams of life in an Eskimo igloo under a roof of blue ice.

If the time ever came when these dreams weren't worth dreaming—if either hot weather or cold weather lasted forever—the famed American gumption would wilt and disappear.

It almost does just that each winter during January and February. It almost does it each summer during the hot weeks that begin late in June and extend through July and August. But after each close call, it bounces back, bigger and better than ever.

The main necessity, therefore, is to play the bounce—to remember when winter comes that spring is not far behind and then summer comes that fall is not far away. It will be only a matter of three bathtubs full of iced tea and a truckload of ice cubes until the geese will be honking overhead on the Orange Blossom Limited and all vacations will be over for another year.

The covers will go back on the bed, the porch furniture will be stored away and an enterprising merchant with a top-heavy inventory of gimcracks will advise shoppers to avoid the rush at Christmas. Politicians will have saved or ruined the country again, depending on how you feel about them, and movie cuties will pose with a turkey gobble to whoop up the sale of white meat for Thanksgiving.

Meanwhile, next time you're up—if you get up—turn the fan this way and blow away some of the hot-weather doldrums.

So They Say

Politicians are just glorified actors.—Movie actor Gary Cooper.

We will not go backwards, and I will take any measure to maintain order in this country.—French Interior Minister Charles Brune.

She (Mrs. Matthew Ridgway) will show the French what a real American woman looks like.—Paris fashion expert Pierre Balmain.

Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

What? No Log Cabin!

The 1952 campaign has one outstanding novelty, a multi-millionaire, an ex-railroad executive, a winter resort builder and a one-time top polo star, running for a presidential nomination. Averell Harriman is an able, hard-working public servant who has been devoting his time and energy to the country's interests, but it is nevertheless something new to see a candidate for the presidency who can afford to make his own White House repairs, replace the Truman piano with a pipe organ, carry the presidential yacht along on a cruise as a "tender" and order all cabinet meetings held on polo ponies.

FANCY A MAN aspiring to the White House who never worked as a shoeshine boy or sold papers in a blizzard to help support his widowed mother! . . . A candidate who never lived in a furnished room, worked in the birdcage factory, went fishing with a bent pin or sold magazines to work his way through school!

In his entire boyhood Harriman was never known as "Butch" or "Freckles." There are no pictures of a dilapidated old Harriman homestead with the family on a ramshackle porch and some goats grazing on the weedy premises. In the face of all this, has he an outside chance?

SELDOM IF EVER in American history has a candidate broken so many of the rules for eligibility. The cardinal ones have always been: (1) a poor but honest boyhood; (2) a career featured by a lot of hard scratching to make both ends meet; (3) a recorded instance of an appearance with a shoe box or bundle of newspapers in early life.

In the past a candidate was a dead duck if born to fabulous riches. There had to be a shoestring in the background somewhere . . . an "Up-From-the-Bottom" motif. Nothing could ruin a man politically like a common knowledge that he had money.

OH, YES, F.D.R. was a well-to-do man with a silk-stocking background, but compared to the Harrimans, the Roosevelts were penniless. Averell might make a great President. Nevertheless, it is another proof that we are in an Alice-in-Wonderland world when a man can get even as far as he has in the 1952 convention picture with forty million dollars and not a period in his life where he had to shovel the snow in front of the corner bakery in exchange for a loaf of bread. Here we have the Democrats spending twenty years shouting for the common man, the underprivileged and the undernourished, yet giving consideration to one of the wealthiest men in the land.

Elmer Twichell would not be more surprised if he witnessed a parade of Democrats bearing banners proclaiming "We Want Morgani!"

Mr. Harriman wears his riches modestly. He doesn't throw his weight around, shine in night clubs or drive two limousines abreast. He is a serious-minded, hard-working guy, anxious to serve his country. He is likable. He has plenty on the ball. He is one of the best advertisements money ever had. But we still don't think he can make it, which is, in a way, too bad.

If elected he could remove the stigma from wealth by showing that a rich man should take his major headaches like anybody else. We shall see what we shall see. And bear in mind that even Averell's daddy, a great railroad tycoon, never dreamed of an express from New York to Washington, via Chicago.

HOW ABOUT a campaign song "For the Love of Ike?" . . . "Two political conventions the same month!" exclaims Elmer Twichell. "It's a doubleheader." . . . The danger is not so much from the smoke-filled rooms as the joke-filled ones . . . Arthur Kober, author of the new Broadway super musical, used to be a theatrical press agent and, as a kid, used to write poetry signed, A Narcissus Kober . . . Speaking of poetry, how about something around the Mike Todd-Jones Beach spectacle with the theme "Broadway is made by fools like me but only Todd can make a beach?" . . . So many men have staged daylight hold-ups in banks lately that there is a possibility the "make-this-your-friendly-bank" appeal has been overdone . . . Bob Moses, N. Y. Park Commissioner, is for offtrack betting on the races . . . Bob does everything on the colossal scale, and we assume that if New York wants superduper, big-scale, six-lane, no-speed-limit gambling, he is its man.

Roving Reports By HAL BOYLE

DENVER (AP) — Having trouble with your mother-in-law Joe? Then take a tip from the Navajo: Put a silver bell on her. Then you'll hear her coming and you can get out of her way.

The Navajos started this peculiar custom hundreds of years ago because of a superstition that if a son-in-law and mother-in-law meet face to face unexpectedly both would go blind.

They had another rather unusual solution to this old family problem. If a young Indian brave knew a widow with an attractive daughter, he would first marry the widow, then the daughter and thus avoid having any mother-in-law trouble at all. All he had to deal with was two wives. Simple?

The Navajos, long impoverished on a vast, arid 16 million-acre reservation embracing parts of four western states, are America's largest Indian tribe. And instead of dying out they are increasing. They still weave rugs and cast silver jewelry for the tourist trade. But they have a new source of income today—mining uranium for the palefaces' atom bombs.

The Navajos are held in high regard out here, and anthropologists think the white man well might adopt some aspects of their culture. They are a pretty well-adjusted people, and some feel that this is a result of their upbringing. Insanity is very rare among them. It is also said that no full-blooded Navajo suffers an affliction which psychiatrists think arises from childhood insecurity.

"The Indians make the world's best parents," one man said. "They neither pamper nor punish their children. They let them learn for themselves, and as a result an Indian boy is self-reliant at the age of 10."

If a child must be punished, he isn't whipped. One of his parents simply throws water on him—a great disgrace.

The Navajos are among the cleanest of primitive peoples and love to take sweat baths followed by a plunge into cold water. If water is scarce, they roll naked in snow or dry sand. Long before the virtues of chlorophyll were extolled over radio and television, these Indians had a way of removing body odors. They simply rubbed themselves under the arms with hot porous rocks provided by nature's free drugstore.

But although they are Spartan beyond belief, they are more doctorminded than the hypochondriac matrons who dwell on Park Avenue in New York.

Some authorities estimate about one out of every 10 Navajo men is either a medicine man or studying to be one. One reason is that medicine men get high fees and their fees are always paid. The other reason is that Navajos, while fearless of death, are greatly afraid of illness. They are also afraid of dead people, and will abandon their home if a member of the family dies in it.

Cancer and diabetes are rare among them. Tuberculosis is common, however, because of their restricted diet.

Today many paleface doctors say breakfast is the most important meal of the day. The Navajos anticipated this view with an old proverb: "What you eat before noon makes you fat." They also prefer tough to lean meat, on the theory it must stay with a man longer because it takes longer to chew. Butchers haven't been able to sell this revolutionary idea in the white man's world—but they are trying.

Navajos are so tough-bodied they formerly caught eagles barehanded and captured deer by running them down on foot in relays. But if a rattlesnake crawls into their home, rather than kill him they will gently shoo him out, explaining carefully that he really doesn't live there. They believe in a "live-and-let-live" policy.

These Indians are noted for their domestic harmony and have few married quarrels. Their home is a one-room, dirt-floored dwelling called a hogan, made of logs covered with dirt. The squaw is boss indoors, and she keeps it neat.

The Navajos don't go in for divorce as a hobby, but a wife is just as free to get one as her husband. Her method is to take her husband's saddle and other belongings and put them outside the hogan. If a husband wants a divorce, he just saddles up and rides away.

You can gather from this that lawyers don't do too well among the Navajos. The odd thing is that—with no laws to confuse them—most Navajos marry and live happily together ever after in their hogan-sweet-hogan on the range.

WIFE HUNTER'S CHOICE.—Mrs. Ette R. Crosbie, Elkhardt, Ind., widow, pauses between planes at Indianapolis, Ind., enroute to Evansville, Ind., to join Jesse Garrett, prosperous farmer of Scott Depot, W. Va., whom she plans to marry. She said Garrett chose her from 1,000 women who answered his advertisement for a wife to care for him, his two sons and $28,000. With her at the airport are her children, Karin (left), 5, and Quinn, 9.

Parcel Post Rate Increase Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General Donaldson asked the Interstate Commerce Commission today to grant another general advance in parcel post rates.

The petition did not say just how much will be asked by way of an increase.

It said merely fourth class mail service — or parcel post — is not paying its way, despite a general 25 per cent increase in parcel post rates granted by the commission last year. The higher rates became effective last Oct. 1.

That rate revision hiked the total charges for packaged mail by 10 million dollars a year.

Under the law, parcel post rates may be changed either by Congress or the ICC.

Questions And Answers

Questions in variety are asked of the doctor today. They are:

Q—What is your opinion as to the effectiveness of glutamic acid for the backward child? —Mrs. D. B. A.—There have been a few technical reports which indicate that the use of glutamic acid may be able to improve the intelligence to some extent. This work, however, is in the stage of what is called experimentation, and cannot certainly as yet be recommended for general use.

Q—My young son was recently hit in one eye with a rock. The doctor says the retina was torn. Is there any type of operation? —Mrs. M. T. M. A.—There is an operation for detachment of the retina, and the question as to whether it should be done on this young boy should be taken up with an expert at the earliest possible moment.

Q—There is a lady in our town who some 30 years ago had syphilis, and as a result lost the sight of one eye. This lady now comes to my house and eats off my dishes and uses my bathroom. Are the members of my family in any danger? E. N. W. A.—No, syphilis is not spread in this way.

and what can be done for it? —Mrs. H. H. A.—This is an infectious and contagious disease, sometimes known as trench mouth, and is believed to be caused by two kinds of germs. It was formerly difficult to treat, but now by the combination of good local measures of hygiene for the mouth and penicillin, the condition can usually be cured successfully, rapidly and completely.

Q—My sister has something called elephantiasis. Her feet certainly do look like elephant's feet. Is there a cure for this? —Mrs. R. S. A.—There are several kinds of elephantiasis, or lymphedema. Regardless of the variety, good care is important to prevent permanent enlargement. In general, treatment is aimed at preventing the accumulation of fluid in the feet, and avoidance of infection. Occasionally, an operation is indicated.

Miss Alice Pauline Long Wed Today To Leonard J. Dudik

Leading the June aisle procession for Saturday was Miss Alice Pauline (Polly) Long who was married at 10:30 this morning in the sanctuary of St. Paul Catholic Church to Leonard J. Dudik, son of Mrs. Mary Dudik of Youngstown.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Long of W. Seventh St. was beautiful in her waltz-length gown of nylon and lace. The simple styling of the gown added emphasis to the fully-fashioned skirt. A veil of nylon net and lace framed her face and she carried white roses and sweet peas.

Miss Bernice Swetey was maid of honor in a waltz-length gown of French blue nylon net. Mrs. Daniel Sanor, sister of the bride, and Miss Mary Ann Dudik, sister of the groom, wore similarly styled gowns in yellow. Complimenting their costumes were bouquets of sweet peas.

Best man was Frank Toman. Ushers were George Dudik and Edward Lutz, all of Youngstown.

Rev. Fr. Edward Varble was celebrant for the nuptial mass. Organist Miss Sarah Colman sang

Millard's mass, and for the offertory played "Ave Maria." For recessional she sang "On This Day Oh Beautiful Mother."

Mrs. Long chose a two-piece frock of blue for her daughter's wedding and wore a red rose corsage. Mrs. Dudik appeared in a pink dress with a pink rose corsage.

For a honeymoon trip later to Atlantic City, N.J., the new Mrs. Dudik will travel in a blue suit with white accessories. The couple will make their home in Youngstown, where the groom is affiliated with the Stachon Consolidated Terminal. Mrs. Dudik graduated from Salem High School and her husband is a graduate of Wilson High School in Youngstown.

The newlyweds will greet their friends and relatives at a reception at the Mikic Hall in Youngstown at 8 tonight. More than 250 guests are expected from Salem, Youngstown, Leetonia, Cleveland, Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey. Refreshments will be served at buffet tables, and the tiered wedding cake will be the center of attraction.

On Honeymoon

Mrs. Robert Yerovsek

Niagara Falls, the traditional honeymoon spot, is a destination of Mr. and Mrs. Robert John Yerovsek, who were married last Sunday afternoon in the Baptist Church. From Buffalo the Yerovseks will go on to Ontario, Canada, to Bigwin Inn. Before their marriage Mrs. Yerovsek was June Carol Zimmerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers Zimmerman of W. 16th St. They plan to make their home in Cleveland at 1856 E. 89th St.

Family Night Honors Presbyterian Youth

Mrs. J. C. Pottorf, president of the Presbyterian Women's Association, welcomed the seniors of this year's class who are affiliated with the Presbyterian Church, to the special "family night" party in their honor Wednesday evening in the church.

"Youth of Our Church" was the theme of the evening and Miss Grace Ellenberger, youth director of the church, arranged the program presented by members of the Westminster Fellowships.

Opening the service was a piano meditation by Miss Ellenberger, followed by prayer by Aaron Needham.

Joan Wilms and Carl Wright participated in responsive readings and a religious story was told by Stacy Paparadis. Mrs. Curtis Vaughan, counselor for the Junior Music Study Club, arranged the musical program.

Singing were Joann Copacia, accompanied by Jerry Van Hovel and John Schmid, with Joan Schuller, accompanist. Miss Ellenberger played for Robert Dunn's cornet solo. A quartet comprised of Jean and Barbara Cameron, Darrell Askey and Everett Crawford entertained with selections.

GIT ALONG, DOGIES

RIDING in from all parts of the west, old-time cowboys will move into Glasgow, Mont., again this summer for their annual roundup and reunion. Many of these cowpokes, who remember when the west was wilder and younger, come to relive some of the memories out of the past. At Glasgow, called the "land of the last frontier," they will work in teams and compete against stop watch in roping calves and branding them. The contest is open to any old-timer who can handle a horse, rope and branding iron. The veterans, however, hope that some of the younger "rookies" come so they can show them how it was done in the days when the west was the last frontier.

Taft

tion stating our contention that these are no longer binding and we are free to take such actions as we may desire. The Russians haven't kept them."

Advocates Propaganda

Taft advocated the use of propaganda and infiltration of Soviet satellite nations as two other measures for meeting the Russian threat. He said he did not believe the Voice of America was effective.

"I don't think a man should sit in New York and influence public opinion in Hungary," he said. "Our propaganda must be based on the organized force of the drive for freedom everywhere in the world. We must defeat communism in the minds of men."

Taft advocated contacting and assisting the underground organization that he said exists in most satellite Communist countries. If or when the time comes, he declared, these organizations can be used against the Russians.

As he has consistently argued, Taft again asserted that security lies in the development of an overwhelming American air force. He said it would be impractical to try to match the Russians with land armies in Western Europe.

"You could build a wall of men across Western Europe and the Russians with their four engine and six engine bombers could still destroy London and Paris. And they could destroy American cities too, coming down from the Arctic."

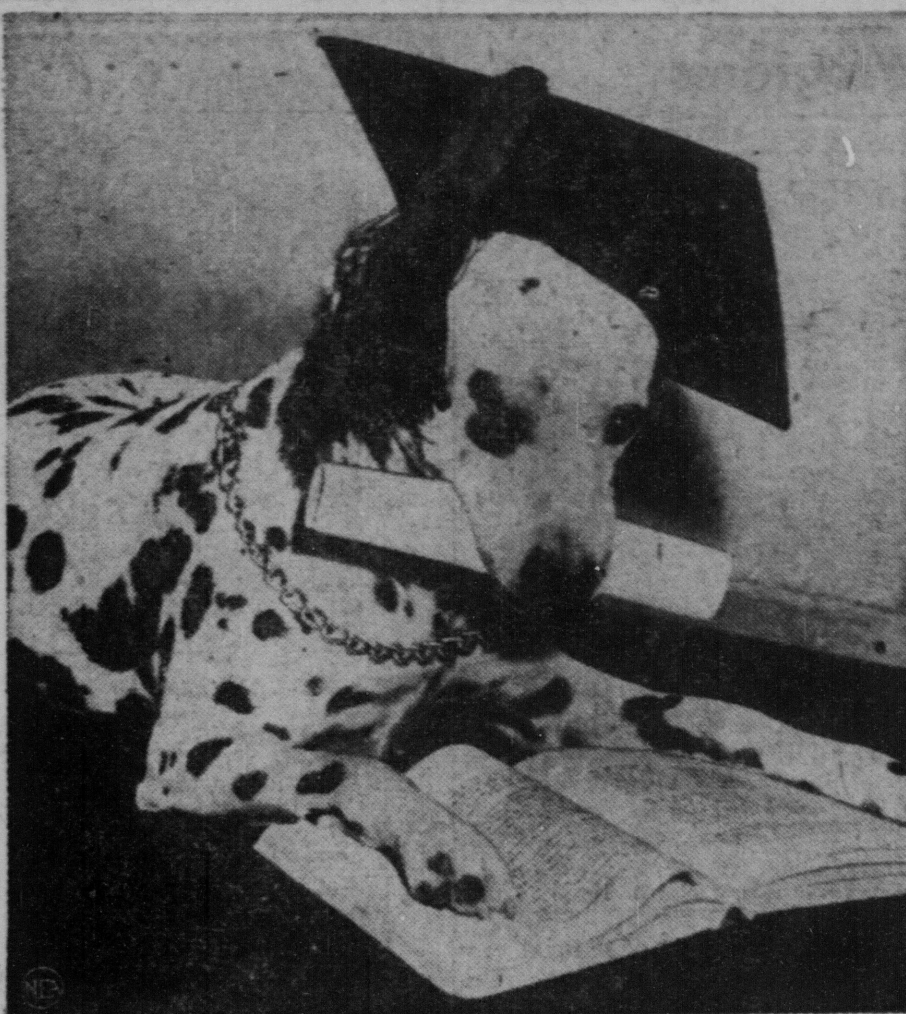

Consequently he continued, the only answer is "control of the air and of the seas around us."

Steel

A Pittsburgh Steel spokesman said 99 1/2 per cent of his company's eligible employees already belong to the union "and therefore it was decided no practical purpose could be achieved by continuing the strike on the union shop issue."

The agreement, retroactive to April 1, provides six paid holidays, three weeks' vacation after 15 years instead of 25 years, an increase in shift differentials of from four to six cents an hour on the second shift and six to nine cents on the third shift.

Steelworkers now average around $1.95 an hour.

The WSB recommended settlement called for a 12 1/2-cent hourly pay increase, retroactive to last Jan. 1 when the contract expired, another 2 1/2 cents an hour July 1 and the same amount next Jan. 1. The recommendation, including fringe benefits, would amount to a 26-cent-an-hour package.

The big steel companies have maintained the major stumbling block toward ending the strike is Murray's insistence on a union shop. Murray not only says this isn't so but declares other issues are involved.

Pittsburgh Steel says all of the terms and conditions in its interim agreement "are subject to adjustment to those which subsequently are incorporated in a new contract between the union and the basic shop."

The company immediately began plans for full scale production. Its plants are located at Monessen and Allentown, Pa., Worcester, Mass., and Akron, O.

Observers predicted more smaller companies will sign interim agreements but they refused to hazard a guess on what the "Big Six" will do. These are U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Jones & Laughlin, Inland Steel and National Steel.

Meanwhile, the total of unemployment resulting from the strike continued to mount. In addition to the estimated 602,000 steelworkers remaining idle, another 208,048 workers in allied industries either are laid off or will be furloughed in the next few days.

The costly strike struck its first big blow at auto production as the Ford Motor Company announced a series of mass shutdowns and layoffs within the next few days. It will close all its Ford assembly plants and three of its four Lincoln Mercury assembly plants at the close of work Monday. This alone, will idle 27,000 employees. Starting Tuesday, the company plans a gradual halt of manufacturing operations at its huge Dearborn Rouge plant.

$250,000 Fire Guts
Canfield Plant

CANFIELD—The Canfield plant of the Mahoning County Farm Bureau Cooperative Association was destroyed by fire Friday evening. The loss was estimated at $250,000 in feed, seed, fertilizer, machinery and paint.

Manager Jacob M. Eschler, who estimated the loss, said the cause was not determined.

The fire started around 6:30 and blazed for a half-hour. It threatened to spread to the Canfield Lumber and Supply Co., which is next door, after winds had shifted in the direction of the lumber company.

The threat died out, however, as firemen from several departments fought the blaze. The Lumber and Supply building was damaged with windows broken and much of the paint destroyed.

The Canfield Boardman and Austintown fire departments were on hand to fight the fire.
